CyberBreak

August 31, 2007

Save the Date!

Upcoming Staff Development Workshop

Fundamentals of Successful Project Management

Friday, September 7, 2007
12:30-4PM W311

RSVP to Marcie by Tuesday, September 4th

Impress Students with Your Humor Skills!

The Student Services Open House is coming on Wednesday, so there's no better time than now to brush up on your humor skills!

People tend to enjoy humor when they can relate to it. Use these three tools to help set-up and deliver enjoyable jokes.

Personalize –
Does the listener know who's involved?

Localize –
Is the location familiar to the listener?

Empathize –
Can the listener relate?

Practice! Here's your chance to get your funny juices going! Try completing these phrases and practice your joke skills!

1) What if . . . "Mr. Rogers were president? He'd probably convince the Democrats and Republicans to stop arguing and share some nice milk and graham crackers." (Not funny? Think of your own!)
2) Have you ever noticed. . .
3) What is it about . . .
4) If I were (name a famous person), I think I would. . .

Learning to Laugh at Work by Robert McGraw (p. 33-38) in the Personnel Library!

Monday, September 3rd

Labor Day!
No Classes!

Fitness Center Hours
9am - 10pm

Friday, August 31st

PAYDAY!

Thanks Accounting!

Wednesday, September 5th

1st Annual

Student Services Open House

10AM - 6PM

If you have any comments, suggestions, or announcements for CyberBreak, please email them to Johanna at jgan@swlaw.edu by Wednesday to assure it will be included in the next edition.