Comment Corner!

Last week we asked Staff:

What do you think of the time change?

Here's one staff member's comment:

"It makes me feel that there is still time to be productive after work and people can somewhat drive since they can see!"

This week's Comment Corner question:

Spring is here, marking the transition from the cold, dark winter. The season can imply many things, from a fresh start through Spring Cleaning or allergies from the newly budding flowers.

What does the spring season mean to you?

Last Week's Answer:
Napoleon Hill
(1883-1970)

Napoleon Hill is an American author known for his personal-success literature. His most famous work has been an all time best seller titled, Think and Grow Rich. His books focus on the power of personal beliefs calling his teachings "The Philosophy of Achievement". His interest in success arose after an interview with Andrew Carnegie. In his research, funded by Carnegie, he interviewed most of the famoust people of the time, including J.D. Rockerfeller, Joseph Stalin, and Henry Ford to name a few. Wiki Link
