Bios continued from reverse

before the U.S. Supreme Court, seeking to clarify the constitutional protections available to post – 9/11 enemy combatants who are U.S. citizens. Professor Martinez clerked for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer and served as an associate legal officer for Judge Patricia Wald of the United Nations International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia. She received her J.D. from Harvard Law School where she was managing editor of the Harvard Law Review.

Devon W. Carbado, Professor of Law, UCLA School of Law

Professor Carbado joined the UCLA Law faculty in 1997, where he serves as Director of the Critical Race Studies Specialization as well as a faculty associate of the Center for African-American Studies. Professor Carbado teaches constitutional criminal procedure, constitutional law, critical race theory, and criminal adjudication. He writes in the areas of critical race theory, employment discrimination, criminal procedure, constitutional law, and identity, and is currently studying African-American responses to the WWII internment of Japanese Americans. Professor Carbado received his J.D. from Harvard Law School, where he was editor-in-chief of The Harvard Black Letter Law Journal.

Mariano-Florentino Cuéllar, Professor of Law and Deane F. Johnson Faculty Scholar, Stanford Law School

Professor Cuéllar joined the Stanford Law School faculty in 2001, where he is affiliated with the Stanford Center for International Security and Cooperation, and a member of the Executive Committee for the Stanford International Initiative. Professor Cuéllar focuses his scholarship on how organizations cope with the legal responsibility for managing complex criminal justice, regulatory, and international security problems. Professor Cuéllar received his M.A. and Ph.D. in Political Science from Stanford and his J.D. from Yale Law School.

Michael A. Heller, Lawrence A. Wien Professor of Real Estate Law, Columbia Law School

Prior to joining the Columbia faculty in 2002, Professor Heller taught at the University of Michigan Law School. He was a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences during 2004-05 and a visiting professor at UCLA in 2006-07. His forthcoming book The Missing Market: Why More Property Means Less Prosperity (Basic Books, 2008) draws on everyday experiences to show why property rights matter so much more than people may realize. He teaches courses in property, land use, real estate, and international law and development. Professor Heller received his J.D. from Stanford Law School.

Non-Profit Organization
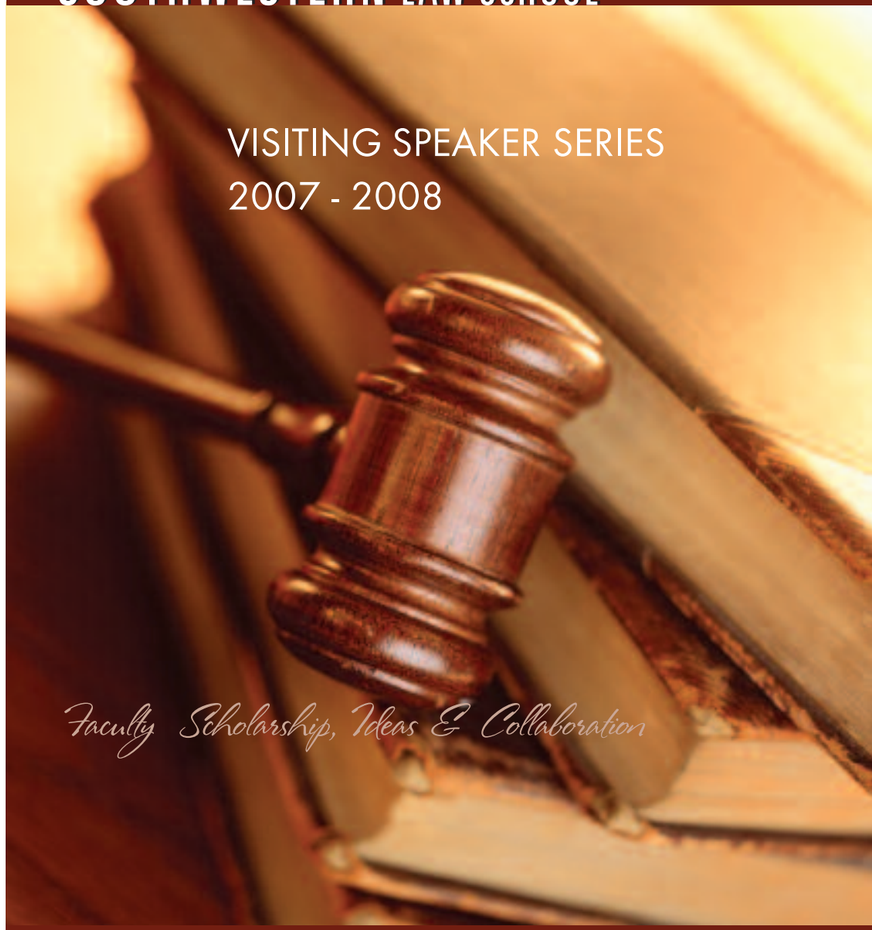
U.S. Postage
P A I D
Lomita, CA
Permit No. 28353

SOUTHWESTERN LAW SCHOOL
3050 Wilshire Boulevard · Los Angeles, CA 90010-1106

A LANDMARK IN LEGAL EDUCATION

Join us for works-in-progress presentations by law faculty from Columbia, Rutgers, Stanford, UC Davis, UCLA and Yale.

SOUTHWESTERN LAW SCHOOL



VISITING SPEAKER SERIES
2007 - 2008

Faculty Scholarship, Ideas & Collaboration

Los Angeles, California

About the Series

Southwestern Law School's Visiting Speaker Series is designed to stimulate ideas for new faculty scholarship, promote collaboration with other legal faculties, and enhance the intellectual life of the law school. The Series invites outstanding scholars from around the country to present works in progress.

General Information

Who May Attend

Southwestern welcomes its alumni and scholars from other institutions of higher learning to participate as part of the interactive audience free of charge.

Time, Location & Directions to Campus

All lectures will be held at 12:30 p.m. in Room BW370. For map and directions to the campus, please visit ww.swlaw.edu/directions. Parking is available on campus for $6.

R.S.V.P.

Please RSVP to Assistant Dean Doreen Heyer at assistantdean@swlaw.edu or (213) 738-6801.

Information on the Series maybe also be found online at:
www.swlaw.edu/academics/speakers/visiting_speaker_series

Founded in 1911 as an independent, nonprofit, nonsectarian educational institution, Southwestern is fully approved by the American Bar Association and is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

Southwestern Law School Visiting Speaker Series

Schedule

Wednesday, August 29, 2007
America's Unwritten Constitution: Between the Lines and Beyond the Text
Akhil Reed Amar, Southmayd Professor of Law and Political Science, Yale Law School

Tuesday, October 2, 2007
The New Enlightenment: How Muslim Women are Bringing Religion Out of the Dark Ages
Madhavi Sunder, Professor of Law, University of California, Davis School of Law

Friday, October 19, 2007
What Exactly is Discrimination on the Basis of Race?
Devon W. Carbado, Professor of Law, University of California, Los Angeles School of Law

Monday, January 28, 2008
The Right to Self-Defense
Kimberly Kessler Ferzan, Professor of Law and Co-Director, Institute for Law and Philosophy, Rutgers School of Law – Camden

Thursday, February 21, 2008
Substance and Process in the War on Terror
Jenny S. Martinez, Associate Professor of Law, Stanford Law School

Thursday, April 17, 2008
'Securing' the Bureaucracy: The Federal Security Agency and the Political Design of Legal Mandates, 1939-1953
Mariano-Florentino Cuéllar, Professor and Deane F. Johnson Faculty Scholar, Stanford Law School

Date TBD
Michael A. Heller, Lawrence A. Wien Professor of Real Estate Law, Columbia Law School

Biographies

Akhil Reed Amar, Southmayd Professor of Law and Political Science, Yale Law School

Professor Amar teaches constitutional law at both Yale College and Yale Law School. After graduating from Yale Law School, he clerked on the First Circuit for Judge Stephen Breyer in 1984-85 and then joined the Yale faculty in 1985. He has delivered endowed lectures at some three dozen colleges and universities, and is the author of several prize-winning books, including, most recently, America's Constitution: A Biography, which earned the ABA Silver Gavel Award of 2006. His presentation for the Speaker Series is based on a current book-in-progress that is a sequel to that book.

Madhavi Sunder, Professor of Law, UC Davis School of Law

Professor Sunder joined UC Davis School of Law in 1999, where she teaches property, intellectual property, and women's human rights. A prolific writer, her scholarship has garnered numerous accolades. In 2006, Professor Sunder was awarded a prestigious Carnegie Corporation Scholarship to support her writing The New Enlightenment: How Muslim Women are Bringing Religion Out of the Dark Ages, her forthcoming book on women reformers in the Muslim world and the subject of her presentation. She received her J.D. from Stanford Law School, where she was an articles editor for the Stanford Law Review.

Kimberly Kessler Ferzan, Professor of Law, Rutgers School of Law – Camden

A criminal law theory scholar, Professor Ferzan is a co-founder and Co-Director of the Rutgers-Camden School of Law Institute for Law and Philosophy and has been a member of the law faculty at Rutgers since 2000. After a clerkship with Judge Marvin Katz in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, Professor Ferzan worked as a trial attorney for the Department of Justice, Criminal Division, Public Integrity Section, investigating and prosecuting criminal offenses committed by federal, state, and local officials. Professor Ferzan received her J.D. cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania Law School, where she was an editor of the University of Pennsylvania Law Review and a legal research and writing instructor.

Jenny S. Martinez, Associate Professor of Law, Stanford Law School

Professor Martinez has been a member of the Stanford Law School faculty since 2003. Through her scholarship, she makes the first major attempt to analyze the ramifications of the increasing number of international tribunals operating in a globalized environment, but without any supervening sovereign authority to which they are all bound. An experienced litigator, she argued the 2004 case of Rumsfeld v. Padilla

- over -