

SOUTHWESTERN

LAW SCHOOL
Los Angeles, CA

Message

from the President and Dean

Southwestern Law School is a special place to study law.

For more than 110 years, we have cultivated passionate, creative, client-focused attorneys and leaders. As the second-oldest law school in Los Angeles, we have always sought outstanding students who have the passion and ability to advocate successfully for their clients, serve their communities, and be leaders in the profession. Our alumni serve as highly regarded attorneys, judges, government leaders, entrepreneurs, professors, and social activists. They've positively impacted their clients' lives, advanced justice, created jobs and businesses, taught generations of students, and improved society.

We are one of the most diverse law schools in the country, in one of the most diverse cities. We have an incredibly caring faculty and staff who go above and beyond every day and will invest enthusiastically in your growth and success. Our students and alumni will welcome and embrace you. We have one of the most beautiful buildings in which to study law. And we have cutting-edge technology for online courses. We are regularly rated a top school for practical training. We have amazing public-interest and social justice programs, renowned advocacy programs, and one of the best entertainment law programs in the country.

Many of our students and alumni are First-Gen. If you're also First-Gen, know that we have programs that will allow you to develop into a first-rate attorney. And we will provide you with incredible opportunities to help you navigate and integrate into the legal profession.

“As a stand-alone private school, we do one thing: law. And we do it exceptionally well. We are a professional oasis where you can focus on becoming the best attorney possible. We are also agile and nimble, which allows us to adjust to a rapidly changing profession and world.”

This viewbook provides a brief overview of our curriculum, programs, and opportunities. I also encourage you to visit the campus and participate in our programming for prospective students. Most importantly, I hope you will consider applying to Southwestern and joining our tradition of excellence!

Best,

Darby Dickerson
President and Dean

Joint-Degree Programs

3+3 B.A./J.D. Program

Cal State University Northridge (CSUN) and Southwestern Law School have established an accelerated multiple-degree program through which students can earn both their Bachelor of Arts and Juris Doctor degrees in six years, rather than the usual seven. CSUN students' first year of law school counts as their fourth undergraduate year.

J.D./M.B.A. Program

The joint-degree program offered through the Drucker School of Management and Southwestern Law School enables students to acquire the combination of legal training and management skills that is increasingly in demand in a complex global environment. By allowing students to engage in the institutions' unique curricula, the collaboration reflects the core values of both Drucker and Southwestern, and the genuine desire to prepare graduates for fulfilling careers that will make a positive difference in society.

J.D. Concentrations

Finding Your Niche

Southwestern offers seven optional concentrations. These concentrations provide students the opportunity to follow a curriculum tied to their specific career goals.

Civil Litigation & Advocacy

- Ideal for students who wish to become civil litigators
- Focuses on developing skills used in the courtroom and litigation law firm settings

Criminal Law & Advocacy

- Ideal for students interested in being public defenders, district attorneys, private defense attorneys, or judges
- Focuses on developing skills such as trial practice, client interviewing, and following rules of procedure and evidence

Critical Race, Gender & Sexuality Studies

- Ideal for students seeking to examine the law through a critical theory lens, focusing on race, gender, and sexuality perspectives
- Focuses on developing an understanding of the origins of law, the social impact of our legal system, and how individuals and their intersectional identities act and react within this system

Entertainment & Media Law

- Ideal for students who want to break into the industry and join a network of accomplished alumni from our top-rated program
- Focuses on cutting-edge developments within the entertainment and media space and helps students navigate a competitive environment

Labor & Employment Law

- Ideal for students who want broad-based training in workplace law
- Focuses on building up knowledge in practice areas such as collective bargaining, discrimination, accommodation, occupational safety, whistleblower protection, and more

Public Interest Law

- Ideal for students wishing to pursue justice for underserved individuals and communities
- Focuses on skills such as client interviewing, trauma-informed lawyering, provisioning direct services, and building a lifelong drive for service

Technology Law & Entrepreneurship

- Ideal for students looking to enter the world of high-growth technology start-ups
- Focuses on building skills related to both the business law and technology law aspects of start-ups and primes students to implement innovative legal strategies in an ever-changing landscape

Entertainment Institute

Award-Winning Programming

Developing well-rounded practitioners and connecting students to the industry

Southwestern consistently ranks among the top ten law schools in the country for entertainment, music, sports, and intellectual property law. Our Biederman Entertainment and Media Law Institute actively seeks opportunities to advance social justice and serves as a pipeline to diversify the legal profession within the entertainment industry.

The Institute complements a broad offering of entertainment, media, sports, and intellectual property coursework with programs such as:

- Externships: Offering hands-on experience at places like Paramount Pictures, Participant, SAG-AFTRA, ViacomCBS, Warner Bros., and Warner Music Group.
- Biederman Scholars: A select group of outstanding students invited to participate in industry networking and educational events.
- The Entertainment & the Arts Legal Clinic: Attorney-supervised students represent performers, writers, composers, producers, directors, and others needing legal assistance with creative projects. The Clinic offers unrivaled opportunities to develop critical entertainment transaction lawyering skills while learning to interact with clients. Services are pro bono, but look for the Clinic logo in the credits of upcoming projects.
- Summer in London and More: The Institute hosts a long-running study-abroad program, co-sponsors an international entertainment and media law conference, and produces the A Conversation With entertainment law and industry podcast based on its speaker series.

A young man with dark hair and a beard, wearing a white button-down shirt, is smiling warmly. He is leaning on a dark metal railing. The background is a blurred outdoor setting with architectural elements.

“ I am thrilled to be a National Jurist Law Student of the Year. It’s an incredible honor to be recognized for my achievements as a law student. Receiving this recognition is a reflection of the exceptional education I have received at Southwestern.”

Legal Clinics

Southwestern's Clinical Program allows students to apply their classroom learning to real legal issues spanning a variety of practice areas. Through the Clinics, students develop skills such as client interviewing, legal issue spotting, negotiating with government entities and other stakeholders, case management, document drafting, legal strategy, and more. Students enroll in Clinics as they would any other class, earning credits toward their degree, and in some cases, fulfilling concentration requirements. Practicing under the supervision of their professors and licensed attorneys, Southwestern students help bridge the justice gap for individuals in need around Los Angeles.

Additional Experiential Learning Opportunities

- Practicum: Through the Amicus Project Practicum, students draft appellate briefs for submission to federal court.
- Public-Service Program: All Southwestern students are encouraged to complete a minimum of 75 pro bono service hours through their time at Southwestern. This provides an invaluable service to clients in the community and allows students practical training in critical legal practice skills.
- Judge Harry Pregerson Public-Service Initiatives: Through a robust day-long program, the JHP Boot Camp helps students develop skills for public-interest law practice while simultaneously building community within Southwestern's public-interest-minded students, staff, and faculty. JHP Public-Service Fellowships provide financial assistance to select students dedicated to working with underserved communities and causes.

Your Success Is Our Success!

Academic Success and Bar Preparation

Law school is challenging. But from the beginning, Southwestern supports your legal education journey with one-on-one support including peer mentorship, research-backed teaching methods, customized writing instruction, and meaningful relationships with faculty.

- Academic Success & Bar Preparation Department: Faculty facilitate courses, workshops, student programs, and one-on-one counseling sessions to help students build practical study skills and understand their learning styles.
- Bison Boot Camp: Entering students participate in a free, week-long intensive course during the summer, practicing the skills needed to succeed during their first year of law school, and beyond. Campers get a head start on what to expect once classes begin.
- Dean's Fellows: Upper-division students with track records of academic achievement mentor new students and help them develop crucial skills such as time management, reading and briefing cases, and outlining.
- The Writing Center: Faculty and students with a demonstrated capacity for legal writing guide other students through written assignments and drafting exercises. Writing Center staff go beyond proofreading and help students develop the skills necessary to be confident and exceptional legal writers. Additionally, the Writing Center hosts the Storytelling Project, a speaker series based on the concept that all lawyers must tell stories.
- Bison Bar Pass: Southwestern has developed a supplemental bar preparation program tailored to our graduates' needs. Students benefit from bespoke services, including individualized feedback, unlimited review of practice exams and essays, simulated exams, and customized study schedules—usually available only through private tutoring.

Participating in any of these programs challenges students to develop and hone their legal research, writing, and analysis skills. Those in the advocacy programs receive additional opportunities to build competencies in oral advocacy and compete in national competitions against teams from other law schools. Those who serve on a journal receive additional training in scholarly writing, gain exposure to emerging issues in the law, and work alongside prominent legal scholars and practitioners.

- Moot Court Honors Program centers around hypothetical cases in which students argue issues of law before panels of justices in mock appellate court proceedings.
 - Negotiation Honors Program places students in mock negotiation scenarios where they must advocate for clients' interests against opposing counsel.
 - Trial Advocacy Honors Program pits students against rival teams in mock trials, complete with evidentiary objections, opening statements, closing arguments, and witness examinations.
- Southwestern Law Review publishes scholarly articles centered around a particular topic that changes with each issue.
 - Southwestern Journal of International Law focuses on publishing articles related to international and comparative law topics.
 - Journal of International Media & Entertainment Law curates and publishes articles surrounding international issues in entertainment, media, and sports law.

The Honorable Vaino Spencer
Chair

A national expert on legal education, racial representation, and diversity, equity, and inclusion, Professor Deo encourages students to share perspectives and learn from the diverse experiences of those in her classes. These interactions inform her scholarly research, which focuses on the intersection of legal academia and race, gender, caregiver status, and other positionalities.

Her book, Unequal Profession: Race and Gender in Legal Academia, and her prior practice as an ACLU Fellow and staff attorney for public-interest firms, are just a few of the accomplishments she brings to the classroom.

Mayor Tom Bradley Professor of Law

Professor Gunning pursued law school for the same reason many Southwestern students do: to support progressive change in society while working across differences in political, economic, and social perspectives. A former public defender and Beacon of Justice Award winner, she now focuses her scholarship on conflict resolution, restorative justice, multicultural dialogue, and the search for shared values within social power dynamics.

From a practice standpoint of alternative dispute resolution and mediation, she regularly engages with local community groups to facilitate conflict resolution among Los Angeles' diverse populations.

Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging

“The Task Force has presented an amazing opportunity to come to the table to discuss critical issues that speak to our sense of belonging and to put into action different ways everyone can feel included at Southwestern.”

Nydia Johnson '10

Associate Dean for Academic Success and DEI Initiatives and Associate Professor of Law

Southwestern’s Task Force for Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging is a dedicated team of faculty, staff, and students charged with addressing essential issues relating to the diversity and inclusiveness of our community. Its overarching goal is to address critical EIB issues and enact positive changes so that Southwestern’s entire community feels valued and included.

Southwestern has embraced and promoted equity, inclusion, and belonging since its 1911 inception. These principles remain core values. But our work is not finished. We engage in honest conversations, examine existing structures, and embrace change as we help to make the legal profession and society more inclusive and just.
