DISTINGUISHED GIVING –

AN INVESTMENT IN THE FUTURE OF THE SOUTHWESTERN LAW SCHOOL COMMUNITY

For more than 100 years, Southwestern Law School has been at the forefront of legal education – developing precedent-setting academic programs, fulfilling a unique commitment since its founding to serve underrepresented groups, and providing rigorous and practical legal education programs for generations of leaders.

Through their generous philanthropic support and active engagement with the law school community, Southwestern’s Distinguished Giving donors help ensure the law school’s ability to fulfill this legacy and continue the tremendous momentum in such areas as our experiential learning opportunities, institutional partnerships, innovative curriculum, community outreach programs and campus enhancement.

Distinguished Giving donors include alumni, faculty, parents and friends of Southwestern who make a minimum annual contribution of $1,000, based on total giving received within the fiscal year ending June 30. Donors may direct their gifts to the funds or programs of their choice, or may elect to support the Dean’s designated priorities by making an unrestricted gift. Through any of these avenues, Distinguished Giving donors are investing in Southwestern’s tradition of leadership and academic excellence in the legal community.

We invite you to join this vital stakeholder group and play an important role in the future of our historic and innovative law school.
