

Kari Cruz Van Sinden

Kari is a fourth-year evening student at Southwestern Law School and the Law Review Special Projects Editor. Kari has previously served as a Dean's Fellow, Chair of the Trial Advocacy Honors Program (TAHP), Teaching Assistant for Torts, and Co-Vice President of the Latino Law Students Association. She has worked as a Judicial Extern in the United States District Court, Central District of California. This year she is a member of the Appellate Litigation Clinic.