Graduates Selected for Prestigious American Board of Trial Advocates Fellowship

In recent years, the Los Angeles Chapter of the American Board of Trial Advocates (ABOTA) selected several Southwestern graduates for its prestigious three-month Victor E. Chavez Fellowship program. Over the past several years, Southwestern has had the most recent graduates chosen for the fellowship program than any other Los Angeles law school. Fellows work for a defense firm, a plaintiff's firm, and a Superior Court judge, in rotation. They immerse themselves in depositions, mediations, court appearances, and trials. Graduates credit their advocacy and writing training at Southwestern for their success in the application process.
